SAPARD, Special Accession Programme for Agriculture and Rural Development represents the Community aid for pre-accession measures in favor of agriculture and rural development in the applicant countries of Central and Eastern Europe during the pre-accession period. Community assistance is granted for the period 2000-2006; it comes to a total annual amount of 520 million euros (in 1999 inflation-adjusted prices), and this for a period of seven years.

The aids earmarked for the SAPARD instrument satisfy the conditions laid down in the accession partnerships concluded by the European Union with each of the applicant countries. These aids are also compatible with the principles of the national programme for the adoption of the acquis communautaire.
