

Analysis of risks and critical control points in food products quality ensurance

POP Cecilia - UPA Iasi
POP M., BOISTEANU P. - USAMV Iasi

Ensuring the security of food, as a main requirement of the economic and social development, may be made through a series of direct interventions, like the control of the quality of the food products, but also indirect, through measures of environmental protection, improvement of the nutritional quality of foods, consumer education etc.