

Business english: New forms or grammatical functions (affixation)

Georgeta RAȚĂ, Simona MOISA - USAMVB Timișoara

This paper is about words and the way they convey information for business . part of a multi-disciplinary approach in which words are analysed from various points of view . lexicological, etymological, semantic, and sociolinguistic. The authors focus here on new word forms . words derived by affixation . and on their grammatical functions, as they appear in what is called .business English..