

Greenchopped sudangrass as protein source for lactating dairy cows

GAVAN C., COLA M. - Facultatea de Agronomie Craiova

This study was designed to determine the amount of supplemental protein necessary when lactating dairy cows receive greenchopped sudangrass as their only roughage. We intended to evaluate the greenchop at different stages of maturity. However, dry weather caused the sudangrass to mature rapidly and prevented regrowth. As a result the material studied was fairly mature.