

Some aspects concerning agricultural enterprise anticipation failure through bankruptcy

C. FILIP - USAMV Iasi

In the specific conditions of market economy the bankruptcy risk of the enterprise, in agriculture economical activity also, is a reality unchallenged. The causes that lead the enterprise to bankruptcy are multiple, and the guarding measures are as much as necessary and important because in agriculture besides the specific conditions of economical and financial nature price, very frequently, the risk and the production uncertainty is due to some unfavorable natural conditions. An efficient management activity might prevent bankruptcy risk effects, prolonging. As oven as long the firm economic welfare. In the paper are selectively presented a few of a multiple causes that lead the enterprise to bankruptcy, and some measures of management nature also, that may prevent the enterprise bankruptcy status.