The European Credit Transfer System (E.C.T.S.) plays a particularly important part both in facilitating student mobility and in developing the international curriculum. E.C.T.S. is an instrument meant to create transparency, to build bridges across gaps between education institutions and, last but not last, to enlarge the diversity of education options for students.

The system also facilitates the assessment of the students academic achievement by items of evaluation which are easy to understand and to use; it is, at the same time, a means of assessing the respective national university systems.

Therefore we support the extension of the Credit System to the pre-university level of education. The primary aim will be that of a more judicious and balanced ratio of distributing school tasks within the work study time, so that to cover all the subjects in the curriculum, and to respect the reasonable amount of time the student has.
