The subject - matter of the scientific survey (study) carries a large range of theoretical and practical aspects regarding the development of the ecological agriculture in The European Union. A special interest has been given to the agricultural ecological produce offer, especially referring to the agricultural areas, the number of ecological farmsteads, but also to the structure of the ecological production. The facts about animal breeding, from an ecological point of view, are less than the one regarding the vegetal sector. Why because the communitary settlements have been orientated towards the vegetal ecological production. As regarding the facts about the international production and trade with ecological agricultural produces, less are known.
