

Quality management

SAVIN Irina Isabella - Grup Școlar "Ioan C. Ștefănescu" Iași

Management stands for a set of actions through which the manager foresees, organizes, coordinates and controls the activity of an organization staff with the goal of reaching the appointed objectives in effective and efficient conditions.

Quality management stands for the art of guiding a society, of being a good manager.

In order to achieve this, you need to apply a management of all the parts, activities and departments which play a part in reaching the set objectives.

Time management has evolved with the development of the industrial society. In order to be able to carry on a profitable activity, with minimal efforts and losses and with light benefits, the manager must develop a managerial style which could positively influence all the activities carried on with in firm.

Quality management is rooted in the appearance of the human being and its maintenance activities. But it had a slow development, alongside with human development and later with appearance of the "technical-scientific revolution", which through up new elements due to necessities which occurred in the industrial and scientific development.