The paper shows the definition of the wet areas and investigates the strategies for the wet lands preservation in Romania, comparing them with the international strategies. In Romania there are 103 areas of wet lands, most of them very important. Some of these are described in the article. Many years, in the old communist regime, wet lands were destroyed for obtaining crops on that lands. In the last few years Romania promotes the wet lands protection in the context of keeping the biodiversity in these areas.
