

Algorithm's method applied in food technology domain

Mihaela NISTORAN-BOTIS, Steliana CUCU - Universitatea "Politehnica" Timisoara

Algorithm's method is a didactical procedure applied for teaching in different domain. It consist from learning the new material through a succession of operations that takes place always in the same order and finally leads to the desired result. This method can be applied also in food domain in some cases.