The agriculture and the commerce are two human activities with a leading part in our contemporary society. This paper tries to analyze the Romanian commerce with agricultural goods from a statistical perspective. The conclusion of the study is that Romania has an important commercial deficit about 1,5 billion euro in agricultural goods. To reduce this commercial deficit we suggest: some legislative measure to diminish the importation of some agricultural goods, stipends for the Romanian agriculture and increasing the exportation of some agricultural products such as ecological products.
