

Diagnosticul performanței întreprinderii cotate pe piața de capital

Silvia PETRESCU - Universitatea "A. I. Cuza" Iași

This paper deals with some aspects of the problems that the diagnosis of the performances of the enterprise quoted on the capital market involve. The capital market became an important field of the economy based on competitiveness, an important criterion in judging the profitability.

The financial analysis of the quoted enterprises involves specialized studies concerning the economic and financial activity in order to diagnose their financial health, the performances and risks.

For this reason the analysis based on accounting information uses the method of the ratios specific to the capital market. These are the problems that our paper addresses.
