

Agricultural animal production in Mureș County compared with the national level

MERCE Emilian, ȘTEF Tiberiu, MERCE Cristian, DUMITRAȘ Diana - USAMV Cluj-Napoca

The assessment of the productive potential of Romanian agriculture implies emphasizing the particularities of the areas and harmonizing the territorial development strategies of agriculture. The most operative way of highlighting the productive potential is analyzing the obtained results in the agricultural production by different geographic and administrativeterritorial areas within the country. To illustrate such a process, the current paper present the analyses of the performances registered in Mures County compared with the national level.