

Study on managerial risks in companies from EUROREGION SE

Felicia DIMA, Camelia VIZIREANU - "Dunărea de Jos" University of Galați

Managerial risk is an inevitable part of any business, and the management of the company must find ways to control their action. Managers have a number of specific methods to avoid, reduce or to assume risks.

Studies conducted in our country have shown that the managers consider they can reduce influence of the risks by using the experience in each area. But recognizing the presence of the managerial risks is the first and most important step.